

Board of Education Fights Reduction In State Aid to Schools

Believe Reduction in State Aid School Money Will Curtail School Activities Here or Increase Real Estate Tax.

A reduction of state aid school money from the state due to the economy program of the present state administration may cause either a curtailment of school activities or place an additional direct tax on real estate. This was the opinion of the board of education which met Friday night in regular session. When the school budget was adopted it was anticipated that the same amount of state money would be received as last year and on that basis the local tax levy was figured out. Now it is apparent that unless a supplemental budget is approved and additional funds are provided for schools Kingston will receive about $15,000 less than last year. Either a curtailment of school activities, reduction of salaries or an additional amount must be raised on local property.

In view of this situation Trustees Kearney asked for information and later a resolution was adopted placing the board on record as favoring a return to communities by the state of at least as much public money as was distributed last year. The resolution directed that the clerk of the board communicate with Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Conway and inform the local legislators that the board was in favor of carrying out the full provisions of the law which was passed several years ago and which provided for an annual increase of public school money based on the increased attendance in each district.

Search Continues For Fifth Flier To Die As Army Carries the Mail

Lieut. George F. McDermott and Two Companions Forced Down in Sea Off Rockaway Point Yesterday—Two Saved, But Other and Plane Still Sought—Airmail Situation at Present—Farley Denies Remarks Charged by Brown.

(By The Associated Press.) Planes and vessels searched the sea off New York today for the body of Lieut. George F. McDermott, fifth flier to die in connection with the army's task of carrying the airmail. En route from New York to Langley Field, Va., to pick up mail planes, McDermott and two other fliers were forced down amid crashing waves yesterday off Rockaway Point.

The navy destroyer Bernadou picked up McDermott's companions, Lieut. J. H. Rothrock and Lieut. W. S. Pockock, Jr., who were weak from exposure. It could not find McDermott nor salvage the disintegrating plane.

Other high spots of the air mail situation:

1. Postmaster General Farley planned to appear before the Senate air mail committee in Washington today to deny he made a slighting remark about the inquiry. Former Postmaster General Brown had said he did.

2. Major C. L. Tinker, commander of the western division of the air mail service, said yesterday the air mail was in "a most impossible situation" in flying the mail at short notice. It was not a question of flying ability, he said, but the army personnel and equipment were for a different kind of service.

3. In Washington the President's drawing plans to have private industry re-bid for the mail contracts.

McDermott, whose family lives in Greenfield, Pa., slipped to his death in the icy Atlantic hours after the plane faltered and alighted. His companions, clad in heavy flying suits and weakened by exposure, could not help him.

Only one of the five army fliers who died in the past eight days was carrying mail, the others being on errands connected with the mail service. A sixth was killed on a private flight.

Farley Denies "Personal Remark". Washington, Feb. 24 (AP)—Postmaster General Farley today denied that he had made a "personal remark" to Walter F. Brown about Senator Black (D-Ala.), committee chairman, as some inferred yesterday from testimony of the former postmaster general.

A "personal remark" Brown had said yesterday, was made by Farley on the occasion of his visit to the postmaster general's office to return official ocean and airmail correspondence he said was found among his personal effects.

He had refused demands of committee members to say what the remark was without Farley's consent. Farley came from North Carolina to deny the implication.

Leopold III Is Active Scarnici Convicted, In Affairs Of State Loughran to Give At Brussels Today Death Decree Tuesday

New King of Belgium Confirms Schoharie Jury Yesterday Found Guilty of First Degree Murder in Detective's Shooting—Jury Takes Two Hours.

Schoharie, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP)—Conscious of one "trap" he couldn't beat, Leopold Scarnici remained in his cell here today awaiting Tuesday, when Supreme Court Justice John T. Loughran will pronounce a mandatory sentence of death for his conviction on a charge of first degree murder.

The scowling New York gangster was found guilty of the murder of Detective James A. Stevens by a jury of farmers who deliberated two hours yesterday. The first ballot showed nine for three and the second was unanimous for conviction.

It was the second trial for the swarthy brute, who was identified by four witnesses as one of the five gunmen who raided the Rensselaer County Bank and Trust Company last May 29.

Stevens was shot down as he fled with the money they had taken from a vault.

The jury disagreed at Scarnici's first trial and acquitted two codefendants. Two other alleged members of the same gang were found dead later, the victims of a "ride" on which it is believed they were taken after a quarrel over division of the loot.

Public opinion was outraged at the result of the first trial and the new trial opened here February 13 on a change of venue.

Little evidence was offered in Scarnici's behalf and he did not take the stand at either trial.

The bank robbery and murder charges were brought after metropolitan police had arrested Scarnici and his companions on suspicion of implication in the kidnapping of John J. O'Connell of Albany.

Now they will take up residence in the royal castle at suburban Laeken, quitting their cooler chateau nearby. Their simple and direct way of meeting people in yesterday's inaugural celebration already has won them the devotion of their subjects.

Also political groups of all hues are talking enthusiastically today of the surprising revelation of the enthronement ceremonies, that young Leopold speaks Flemish as perfectly as he does French—the Walloon tongue. He was required to use both languages in taking the oath.

This fact may aid Leopold, Flemish separatists, although they now hold only seven seats in parliament, were reported to have encouraged two communist deputies who created a disturbance in parliament Thursday.

The same communists shouted derisively during the cheering for Leopold at his enthronement Friday, but were heard only by those nearest them.

Separatist elements, some of them proclaiming allegiance to Chancellor Hitler of Germany, were said to have objected to the king's speech on the ground it failed to meet the demands of the Flemish people. Most of these demands were satisfied during Albert's reign and an old feud between the Flemish Catholic faction and the French Walloons has ceased to be a Catholic problem.

The royal couple was blessed this morning at a Te Deum Mass in the St. Gudule Cathedral where funeral services were held Thursday for Albert.

The coronation of King Leopold and Queen Astrid is expected to be held in six months at the end of the period of court mourning for the late monarch.

Foreign Legion Active. Rabat, Morocco, Feb. 24 (AP)—France's fighting Foreign Legion and two desert armies began today an active campaign to conquer and occupy the remainder of the vast Moroccan territory.

General Antoine Hurre, commander-in-chief, sent the two forces into the western half of the lower Atlas Mountains. There, 200,000 natives hold 4,000 square miles.

In these hills live fierce tribesmen who raid the fertile valleys below periodically and cut the sketchy French communication lines there.

Much Gold on Way. Cherbourg, France, Feb. 24 (AP)—Sixteen tons of gold were placed aboard the Bremen today for shipment to the New York Federal Reserve.

It appeared the start of the voyage might be delayed until Sunday because of fog. One-sixth of the shipment was Swiss and a small quantity Dutch, the remainder being from Paris. The gold is valued at 218,000,000 francs (approximately $14,170,000).

NRA Does Not Restrict. Ottawa, Feb. 24 (AP)—Prime minister R. B. Bennett says no item in any code thus far promulgated under the NRA in the United States has imposed any restrictions on Canadian trade. In the matter of spirits, he told the house of commons last night, Canada has been given practically a monopoly because of the type of liquor manufactured here.

SOS Call Sent Out. Boston, Feb. 24 (AP)—SOS calls from the steam traveler Loon, operated by the Portland Trawling Company at Groton, Conn., said that the ship was in serious distress today, 260 miles east southeast of Boston as a result of having sprung a leak. Immediate aid was asked.

Returned to New York. Mr. Brown charged Mr. Watkins with disposing or secreting mortgaged personal property. The case will come up for a hearing later before Judge Culliton in police court here.

Fear For Lives of Eight Persons Aboard Plane Lost In Blizzard

Wide Search Organized For United Air Lines Transport Plane Lost In a Raging Mountain Blizzard and Fog—Plane Carried Five Passengers and Crew of Three From Salt Lake City Toward Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Rock Springs, Wyo., Feb. 24 (AP)—Fear for the lives of eight persons grew today as a wide search was organized for a United Air Lines transport plane lost in a raging mountain blizzard and fog.

The plane, carrying five passengers and a crew of three from Salt Lake City toward Cheyenne, Wyo., failed to reach there on schedule late yesterday. Officials said it must have come down last night, probably somewhere near here.

This belief hung on the report of a Japanese section foreman who said that the plane, frantically calling for directions, passed over his shack at Emery, Utah, at 3 p. m. yesterday. The foreman said he received the request for directions on his short-wave wireless set. He ran from the house, saw the plane skimming close to the ground, and shouted to it that it was over Emery. Then, almost at once, the plane roared away into a blinding blizzard, he said.

The huge craft had departed from Salt Lake City for Cheyenne at 2 p. m. yesterday and that it would have been impossible for it to remain aloft more than five hours.

The passenger list: E. L. Walker, flying from Los Angeles to Rock Springs; J. J. Sterling, Benton Harbor, Mich., flying from Salt Lake City to Chicago; Bert McLaughlin, of Perry, Iowa; W. B. Bergland, of Boone, Iowa; and M. Zimmerman, of Des Moines, Ia., flying from Los Angeles to Des Moines.

The crew: Pilot Lloyd Anderson, Cheyenne; Co-pilot J. Danielson, Cheyenne; Stewardess Mary Carter, Cheyenne, formerly of Omaha and Chicago, and originally from somewhere in the Carolinas.

The ship, a huge Boeing low-winged monoplane, was under route instructions to report by wireless 20 minutes after leaving port. The report never was made. Boeing officials said at Cheyenne.

Gangs of Boys Are Robbing Stores

There are numerous complaints of losses on the part of storekeepers through petty thieving on the part of boys and lads up to 16 or 18 years of age.

One uptown merchant recently located the source of losses that had extended through several weeks, principally in candy and gum, of which a surplus stock was kept at the rear of the store. A watch was kept and particular attention was paid to two lads who entered the store one morning. While one of them made pretense of reading a book near the front of the store, the other made his way to the rear. He was followed and found to have a large box of candy in a small grip which he had with him and was about to help himself to another when accosted by the merchant and accused of the theft. It was also discovered that his companion had purchased one article and helped himself to three others for good measure.

Another merchant tells of repeated losses through boys who visit the store, generally in groups and help themselves to small articles as they pass counters on which these goods are displayed. One boy caught in the act recently was a youngster around seven years of age. A visit to the boy's home brought forth the remark from his grandmother, who apparently was in charge, that "boys will be boys."

She did not add that boys who start out that way are quite apt to be candidates for state prison when they get older. The merchant in question stated that his experience had been, in a great many cases, that boys caught in the act of stealing goods, came from homes where either one or both parents were dead, or else had little or no control over their children.

"Puzzle King" Is Dead. Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 24 (AP)—Sam Lloyd, veteran "puzzle king," died suddenly last night in the Peck Memorial Hospital, of pneumonia. He was 60 years old. Lloyd, whose puzzles challenged newspaper readers for more than 30 years, originated 10,000 puzzles by his own estimate. He goal was to create one puzzle a day. Working eight hours a day in his Brooklyn studio, he turned out an average of 300 a year.

5 Killed, 10 Injured When Bus Overturned

Wickenburg, Ariz., Feb. 24 (AP)—Five persons were killed and 10 injured when a large passenger bus carrying 35 Mormon Church workers slid from a rain-drenched highway and overturned one mile east of Agua Fria today.

Sheriff's deputies said the dead were:

Mrs. Chester D. McArthur, Mrs. Frank Rice, A. Mrs. Crawford, A. Mrs. Gorman, A child of Mrs. Pearl Harnes.

Two hours after the accident, confusion still prevailed to such an extent that authorities were unable to obtain a comprehensive report of what occurred.

The only means of communication with Agua Fria was a railway telegraph line, and it was over this wire from the state dispatcher that the next of the accident first was sent.

Several Fined for Defective Lights

Four More Automobiles Fined $2 Each for Operating Cars With Only One Headlight or No Tail Light Lighted—Other Cases in Police Court.

William Schweinler of Oak street, who on Friday asked Judge Culliton to dismiss two charges lodged against him on the ground that "he had not been arrested," was fined $2 after a trial this morning in police court for operating his car on Broadway with only one headlight and no tail light lighted. The charge of not having an operator's license was dismissed.

How the police department is operating the drive on defective automobile lights was brought out at the hearing when Officers Harnes and Camp testified at the Schweinler hearing. From their testimony Officer Harnes was stationed at Broadway and Orchard street and Officer Camp at Broadway and East.

As Schweinler passed that night only one headlight was lighted on the car and blew a blast on his police whistle which was a signal to Officer Camp, who stopped Schweinler.

According to Officer Camp he told Schweinler that he was sorry but he was acting under orders of the police board and the mayor as there were too many cars operating with defective lights and that he was under arrest and to report at police headquarters. Officer Camp then testified that he called up the police headquarters, after taking the license number of the Schweinler car, and told the man on the desk that he was sending two auto drivers to the city hall. The other driver was Fred Webster of Connelly.

Mr. Schweinler testified that the officer had stopped him and told him to report to police headquarters but did not inform him that he was under arrest. He said that Officer Camp said that "I am sorry but I am acting under the mayor's orders."

Judge Culliton at the close of the hearing fined Mr. Schweinler $2. Fred Webster, arrested at the same time with Mr. Schweinler, was fined $2.

A similar fine was imposed on Sophie Bocco of Stephan street. Louis Epstein of Hasbrouck avenue, arrested on a charge of operating a car without the tail light lighted, was fined $2.

Bennett Fined $25. Charles Bennett of Gate street, employed by the CWA as a night watchman at the old armory, was arrested Friday evening by Sergeant Philney on a charge of petty larceny in taking two gallons of paint and a gallon of varnish from the building. The arrest was made after Superintendent Hugh McCullough in charge of the armory job had reported to the police that a quantity of paint and varnish had been stolen from the job. Bennett pleaded guilty to the theft of two gallons of paint and a gallon of varnish and was fined $25 by Judge Culliton. In default of the payment of the fine he was to spend one day in jail for every dollar not paid of the fine.

Watkins Arrested. James W. Watkins of New York city, was arrested there on Friday by Sergeant Philney and brought back to Kingston on a warrant sworn out by George N. Brown, who formerly conducted the Orchard Hotel on Broadway, later selling out to Mr. Watkins, who continued the hotel for a while and then gave up the business and returned to New York.

Mr. Brown charged Mr. Watkins with disposing or secreting mortgaged personal property. The case will come up for a hearing later before Judge Culliton in police court here.

KIDNAPING IS OLD STUFF TO INDIANS

Savages in Colombia Have Ideas on Subject.

Panama.—Kidnaping is not confined to the United States or other civilized countries. The savage Indians who inhabit the Guatira peninsula in Colombia have some advanced ideas on the subject, according to discoveries made by the Western-Carr expedition now engaged in exploring this little-known region of Colombia.

Recently a young girl was carried off by an enterprising young Indian of another tribe and as a result the offended tribe demanded a big indemnity in the form of several horses and cattle, the return of the girl being of secondary importance provided their wounded pride was suitably compensated.

This offending tribe refused, and their refusal being tantamount to a declaration of war, the others lost no time in swooping down upon one of their enemy's outlying villages while the menfolk were away hunting, and carrying off several women and more than a dozen young children whom they threatened to put to death unless a very large ransom were immediately forthcoming. They also made it clear that any attempt at rescue would result in the early death of all the prisoners.

Tribe Lacked Money.
As it turned out, the tribe to which the women and children belonged was not wealthy and was unable to raise the required number of animals demanded as ransom. They therefore made up their minds to fight and try to recover the captives by force.

At this juncture, news of the impending inevitable deaths of the captured women and children reached the handful of Capuchin monks who, not far from the small border town of Riohacha, have established a small orphanage for abandoned Indian children where the children are trained to feed for themselves in farming and so forth.

A couple of the monks were dispatched posthaste to the scene of the impending conflict with instructions to save the lives of the captured children at all costs. This was easier said than done. The chief in whose power they were was quite willing to surrender the children if the ransom, amounting to a large number of cattle, were paid, but on no other terms.

The monks thereupon got busy in true Christian spirit, and returning to their headquarters, they and their fellow-workers mustered all the wealth of the orphanage in terms of cattle and had these delivered to the Indian chief in exchange for the children, who were promptly rushed away to the safety of the orphanage.

Fighting Lasted Three Months.
Unfortunately, the meager resources of the monks made it impossible for them to ransom the women, whose own people, persisting in their endeavors to rescue them, plunged both tribes into a deadly tribal conflict which lasted fully three months, during which many Indians were killed on both sides.

Eventually the Capuchin fathers again intervened and managed to persuade the two tribes to make peace, which was done to the accompaniment of considerable palaver and a vast exchange of cattle, which, although impressive to the eye, really left both tribes no better off than they were before. Peace, however, had been achieved.

The monks having already paid the ransom for the children, it was agreed by the Indians that the children belonged to the monks by right of purchase, and as the self-sacrificing Capuchins considered the welfare of the children of more importance than their lost cattle which had been used for the ransom, they decided to allow the children to remain in the orphanage, where they are now being educated.

Gambling Costs English Two Billions a Year
London.—The gambling spirit of Old England is indicated by the estimated figure of two billion dollars which is turned over each year in betting on horses, dogs, and football.

While indications are that the government will remove its ban on betting on the more respectable dog tracks, Sir J. Leishman, a member of the recent royal commission on lotteries and betting, claims that dog racing fulfills no other purpose than to provide opportunities for organized betting for private commercial profit.

Persons who indulge in lotteries are super-optimists, who believe in a luck personal to themselves.

Tin Strike Causes Rush of Miners in Canada
Edmonton, Alta.—Creating almost as much excitement as a gold rush, a major tin strike in the Port Grahame country, 185 miles north of Hudson Hope, has been reported here. Word of the strike was carried by a party of prospectors, who brought samples of tin here for assay. The find was greeted with interest because tin has become one of the most sought for metals in the world.

Killed Poison With Pistol
Hecker, Ill.—Miss Marjorie Rauch, adjudged the most beautiful girl to Monroe county at a contest, also proved to be an expert pistol shot. When she saw a poison in the chicken yard of her home, 10 yards away, the girl opened fire with a pistol, killing the animal.

started that an inspection of the building should be made by some State Education Department representative as to how the alterations might best be made.

Since any alterations of a major nature must be approved by the department it was deemed wise to get the department's ideas on the matter and start out with some plan which was approved by the department. The building committee was authorized to have such an inspection. An inspection by a state department was made a number of years ago and as a result of that inspection alterations were made. It was deemed wise to follow this same procedure now.

Trustee Feeney offered a resolution that 30 table arm chairs be purchased at the rate of extra students who have no regular desk accommodations. These chairs are installed wherever room is to be had.

Permission was granted the Mendelssohn Club to use the high school auditorium for their spring concert on April 11.

Trustee LeFever asked whether any post-graduates had been refused admission to the high school. This session due to the crowded condition at the high school, Mr. Van Ingen said none had been refused and 38 were being cared for. It was reported that there had been reports that admission had been refused.

Mr. Van Ingen said that he knew of none unless there was some special reason in an individual case and it would be investigated.

Since the next regular session of the board would come during spring vacation period it was voted to hold the next meeting on Friday, March 23.

There were but five members present. Trustees Beeres, Byrne, Kearney, Feeney and LeFever.

Following the session the board made an inspection of various lighting fixtures to determine which type was best adapted to school work. Over 200 new fixtures will be installed as a result of work done under the CWA program of school improvement.

To the Board of Education, Gentlemen: In last month's report I stated that a report of the results of the examinations closing the first term's work would be submitted at a future date. The following refers to the high school examinations.

The young fellow who imagines himself a Packard in his own home town may find he is only an Austin when he starts out in the world.

Conscience Stricken
I thought I had decided to buy a brand new car. I listened very patiently to salesmen near and far. Discouraging on the workmanship and all the fascinations about the bodies, gears, and brakes of motorized creations. The salesman talked complacently, their prices very attractive. The arguments in favor of each car were more than ample. But, though they boomed each other's wares, oh, very forcibly, there was one point in question on which they all agreed, and it is this—that my old car's not worth a continental. And that I value it because of reasons sentimental. The faults they find with it would take me hours and hours to tell it. And so I guess I'll keep the thing—I'm half ashamed to sell it.

Man—How's your wife?
Friend—She's the same, thank you.

Migrations in Sea
In the sea there are also migrations, according to an authority. The whales of the cold Antarctic travel from area to area, their movements apparently being governed by their breeding habits and by the available supply of plankton on which they feed. Keta, too, breeding in mid-Atlantic, are known to cross the ocean, going west to the American coast and east to the rivers and bays of Europe.

Talks to parents

Juvenile Carpentry
By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

When he was 4 years old Tommy developed a passion for carpentry, and chiefly for driving nails. His family was driven nearly to distraction by the appearance of nails and scars in even the drawing room furniture, and racked their brains to think of some method of satisfying the youngster's mania, while protecting the household goods.

Finally his father produced a nice, solid piece of wood and a box of nails, and told Tommy that he could practice driving nails into the block as much as he liked, but that if he touched anything else, whether house, furniture, or out-buildings, he would not be permitted to use a hammer at all.

The boy drove nails off and on all the first day, and after he had gone to bed his father painstakingly pulled them all out and prepared the equipment for another day. The second day Tommy worked as busily as ever, and again his father patiently undid the results of his labor that night. By the third day the child's enthusiasm was waning and presently hammer and nails were discarded for a new interest. Children have sudden fancies for doing some one thing over a given period of time. Granted an expression of their hobby, they generally recover very rapidly. The difficulty is that many of these pursuits can be very destructive.

If they can in any way be given an outlet until the enthusiasm wears off, they are likely to be of short duration and harmless. Often, indeed, they have a constructive value, as in the case of Tommy, who learned a lot about how to drive nails and drive them straight, and acquired a considerable amount of muscular control during his moment of enthusiasm.

MENUS OF THE DAY

Appetizers in Variety

Dainty appetizers with a delicious flavor are made by softening liver sausage with a little cream and spreading on squares of toasted and buttered Graham bread. Sardines mixed with pickle relish and chopped celery is very good placed on hot buttered pieces of toast.

Chopped ham, chicken, veal, lamb or beef, softened with salad dressing makes an excellent filling for small sandwiches which are served plain or toasted.

When making appetizers be careful not to have the topping or filling too thick or it will become pasty.

Satin Has International Status

GRAY AND WINDBLOWN

New York—Although Paris is the focal point of fashion interest at the moment, one must not forget that in Palm Beach and Miami fashions are being made.

The preference for satins, especially in pale shades, is one of the style messages from this locale. And that some of the satins are printed must be recorded. Sheers combined with metal, especially black threaded with gold, is something else one must underline in writing of fashions below the frost belt.

In writing last week of what chic women wore at St. Moritz, mention was made of the marked preference for brown furs, sable especially used on white. We find the same preference at Palm Beach. The caplet made of three fox skins, noted elsewhere, is one of the "uniforms" of the southern season.

Jumping back to Paris again, we must mention without delay that not only printed satins but figured taffeta are in good standing. Taffeta is mentioned from most of the houses and figured taffeta from almost all. One is also impressed by the amount of navy reported and for all occasions. If navy taffeta does not sound pre-war, what does? Yet it is one of the current offerings of promise.

Natural linen suits are another throw back that has promise. The clever combination of linen and hand knitted fabrics seems to offer all manner of interesting possibilities either in boucle or twine. This is one of the several interesting ideas gleaned at Rouleau-paris, a name new to you, I am sure, for it is the first showing of this house, accentuating, although not specializing on, sports models.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

One of the younger Paris houses which presented a collection is Germaine Bailey, who shows 1935 to 1940 influences in draped sleeves, high necks and many tunics, with several skirts opening at front over a foundation. There are quaint hip-length evening capes with hood drapes.

Red and gray chevrons make the revers of the Windblown suit, made in gray tweed with velvet front and fold of fabric complementing the shoulder slightly.

New York, Feb. 24. (AP).—Stocks generally pointed downward again today although the selling was orderly in the face of considerable pessimistic sentiment in Wall Street. A few scattered issues, including the Aircrafts, showed resistance, but the close, on the whole, was heavy. The turnover for the brief session approximately 1,300,000 shares.

Market commentators attributed the further reaction partly to the growing belief that a rather drastic law will be enacted by Congress for the federal control of speculation; to the reports of labor difficulties in some of the automobile and motor assembly plants and to the fear that governmental investigation of various industries may follow an inquiry into alleged price-fixing agreements by the packers.

American Telephone was among the few issues that showed the trend, finishing with a fractional gain. Seaboard Oil also got up a point. But losers of 1 to 2 or more included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Smelting, Western Union, Bethlehem Steel, Electric Auto-Lite, Case, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Santa Fe and Pennsylvania.

The rally apparently ignored a sharp contra-seasonal upturn in freight car loadings for the week ended February 17. In this period shipments increased 26,392 over the previous week in 1932. Heavy gains in coal shipments accounted for much of the improvement, although the movement of miscellaneous freight was an important factor.

LaGuardia Plans New
Attack on Bill Enemies

New York, Feb. 24. (AP).—Mayor F. X. LaGuardia announced today that unless the Legislature immediately passes his New York city economy measure he will resort to "extraordinary" means of city employees.

He will adopt this drastic procedure, the mayor explained, by authority of a law which permits the city to eliminate employees by certifying that there are no funds with which to pay them.

The mayor's announcement provided a new climax for his battle with the Legislature over a measure which he contends is imperative if the budget is to be balanced and which the Democratic faction at Albany holds would grant too much power to the city administration.

Orange Juice for
The Unemployed

Orange juice will be on the tables of the unemployed in New York state at breakfast time within a week, according to plans announced by Homer W. Borst, head of the Federal Surplus Division of the state temporary emergency relief administration. Starting yesterday between 120 and 200 carloads of Florida oranges will arrive in New York city every month for distribution throughout the state. If the plans made by Mr. Borst materialize oranges should be received in Kingston for distribution by the latter part of next week. It is also stated that within two weeks about 1,500,000 pounds of hard will be available for distribution to needy persons in the state.

Corse Payton Dies
In Brooklyn at 66

Corse Payton, the father of the ten-twenty-three shows of the Gay Nineties, who billed himself as "America's best bad actor," died Friday of chronic heart disease at the Greenpoint Hospital, Brooklyn, aged 66 years. Mr. Payton and his stock company were yearly visitors to Kingston in the 90's and early 1900's. During his heyday he earned close to $100,000 a year, climbing from the ranks of the "supers" to matinee idol and theatrical manager. He was the man who originated the "10-20-30 cent" scale of prices when he opened the Payton Lee Avenue Theatre in Brooklyn.

WINGLESS ROOSTER
INTERESTS SCIENCEHope for Light on Mechanism
of Flight

Washington.—A wingless Plymouth Rock rooster, now in the National Zoological park, may afford science some light on the evolutionary origin and mechanism of flight.

This bird, now about six months old, is a perfectly normal specimen in every respect, except that it has no wings. Wingless specimens of normally winged birds reported hitherto have died shortly after birth. But apparently the abnormal progress of this rooster in the egg went on without the disturbance of anything except the slight mechanism.

It was obtained by Dr. Herbert Friedman, curator of birds of the Smithsonian Institution, from Mrs. O. Deering of Rose Hill, Ky. Dr. Friedman hopes to find out from him what happened to inhibit the growth of wings—provided dissection shows that he had no rudimentary wing bones inside his body. This is the case with some wingless families such as the Kiwis of New Zealand. They have wings which do not "come out." The wings of a bird are modifications of the same structures which become the front legs, or arms, of a mammal. If the point of failure in the development of this bird can be established it may throw some light on the general problem of the physical mechanism of bird flight itself and of its loss in some species, not yet understandable from normal embryological material.

The earliest known birds, such as the fantastic archeopteryx, possessed well-developed wings. Loss of power of flight represents a degenerative rather than a primitive condition among living birds.

The flightless young rooster, serenely unconscious that he is being watched so curiously as the possible custodian of a secret which has defied science so long, acts like any other bird of his age, sex and species, except that it has no flying instinct. When it is placed, ravenously hungry, on a table and corn strewn on the floor it hesitates a long time before taking the risk of jumping down to obtain it.

World's Largest Cross
Rises in San Francisco

San Francisco.—The world's largest cross, a concrete emblem that will rise 100 feet above the crest of Mount Davidson, is under construction here. It will serve as the focal point in San Francisco's traditional Easter sunrise service.

When lighted each Easter season, the cross' luminous shape will be visible 100 miles on clear nights. The huge cross-shaped shaft will be seen on clear days throughout the San Francisco bay region, rising from the three-crested highest hill in San Francisco. The city park commission, which is building the cross at a cost of $15,000, started the emblem to perpetuate the tradition of more than a decade of lighted cross and Easter sunrise services on Mount Davidson.

Resting on a concrete base block 18 feet in diameter, the center shaft of the emblem will rise 1,020 feet above sea level. It will be 10 feet square at the base and 9 feet square at the top of the 100 foot structure. The cross-arms will be 30 feet from tip to tip and 71 feet from the base.

Three wooden crosses have been raised on Mount Davidson, serving as the focal point for more than 40,000 persons who gathered each year for the services. The first cross was burned.

Mice Eat Money

Hamburg, Iowa.—A. R. Gordon, farmer, of near here, has a grudge against field mice. While husking corn in his field he lost a billfold with $67 in currency. Unwilling to concede its loss, he continued the search for the pocketbook for several weeks. When finally he located it, he discovered that field mice had devoured all but minute corners of the bills.

Mountain Moving
20 Feet Each Day

Pistoria, Italy.—Nearly one whole side of the mountain that overlooks the village of San Marcello Pistoiese has been in slow but steady movement for some time.

It moves at the rate of about 20 feet a day, sometimes a little more and sometimes less. The phenomenon is really a kind of landslide, but instead of the fall of the land being violent and rapid, it is deliberate and slow in the case of the "moving mountain."

The disturbance in the soil is deep, for the woods on the summit of the mountain move slowly and majestically down the slopes in perfect formation. It is not the mere surface which is moving, but the soil for a considerable depth covering the roots of big chestnuts and pines.

The strange phenomenon has attracted great attention and visitors are arriving every day to see the "mountain that walks." Among seeking is disturbed as the land proceeds in its slow, irresistible fashion down to the River Arno, in which already great quantities of earth have fallen. Huts and groves, fens and ditches have been carried bodily down to the river without being destroyed or broken.

Crisp White Neckwear's the Thing
Esopus Reported
Frozen to Bottom

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SUCH an exciting season of striking crisp white neckwear as is this! Seems as if most of spring and summer costume interest is centering about neckwear treatments. It really is not oversteering the matter to say that frilly, frivolous and altogether fascinating details at necklines, sleeves, shoulders and wrists are just about to "steal the show."

That oft-repeated theme of black-and-white comes to us for spring in terms of chic black frocks which are lavishly enlivened with the most beguiling crisp white neckwear fancy can picture. For that matter, whether the dress be one of the new black or dark blue crepes or a swanky thin pastel woolen, or a print done in the new bizarre coloring, the first thing to strike one about it is almost sure to be the feminine frilly white neckwear which adorns it.

As to the materials for these all-important neckwear items they include most everything from tailored plaques, tulle and washable crepes to sheers of transparent mousselines and organdies. And there's lace! Don't forget lace, for any amount of pretty lace fixings are in promise, ranging from Irish crochet and all-over patterns to daintiest valencienes.

Possibly it is the frilly little sheer pleatings which are assigned the leading role in this play of neckwear. Anyway "oodles and oodles" of wee pleatings are running riot about necklines and sleeves and up, down and around front fastenings.

The illustration presents a few neckwear highspots. Since these sketches speak so dramatically for themselves, instead of describing them individually we would much rather tell you about the perfectly adorable neckwear fantasies which are designed to simulate flowers. For example, a capelle bib effect is formed of a mass of long spangle petals suggesting the chrysanthemum motif. Then there is the daisy collar which is made of long petal tabs. A cala lily theme is interpreted via a series of coruscating rolls of white plique. Tulips, orchids and roses are also copied in various white weaves. Of course mere words do not do them justice; they have to be seen to yield to their magic spell.

We have not attempted to picture by word or sketch the multitudinous tailored fashions which are featured on the vast neckwear program mapped out for the coming months. Plentiful versions appear in starched and stitched linen and plique in plain and embroidered organdie and there is a big showing of printed silk neck togs. Outstanding in this class are the clever scarf and bib effects made of gay Mexican silk stripes.

For afternoon wear there are collar and cuff sets fashioned of metallic-barred and embroidered tulle and bright greens and reds and other primary colors, likewise blacks and navies with gold or silver patternings, with gold on white being an outstanding favorite.

Huge bows either of gay silks or fashioned of sheer white weaves are receiving lots of attention. Very elaborate lingerie bows are made of masses of little "vial" edgings or work embroidered organdie and lace together.

Many of the bright silk collars and bows have matching hats and even a belt and a bag of the identical silk is sometimes added.

'KERCHIEF BLOUSE
BY CHERIE NICHOLAS

If you look close you will note that the waist portion of this dress extends below the belt at the front in a point—which is what is meant when we refer to the "kerchief blouse." You will see this handkerchief point theme interpreted repeatedly all through the spring and summer modes. The material for this simple and effective gown is a brown and white crepe silk. Note the very new three-quarter sleeves. The buckle is a red and white novelty.

"Honey Loops" to the Dead

A direct and logical way of attempting the communication with the dead is the "honey loops" method used by the members of certain West African tribes. When they wish to send a message to a departed soul they tell it as a supernatural "honey loop" and then kill the honey bee.

COLORS FOR SPRING
COVER WIDE RANGE

Talk of colors for spring includes such phrases as "bright light" colors and "dirty" pastels. In the pastel range baby pink influenced by gray or green, and bold de rose inclining toward ashes of rose; blues in nearly tone are leading tones.

In the brighter range are Chinese and geranium reds, similar respectively to manchu and saffron; a tango shade like Indian orange, and a corn yellow with less green in it than the corn gold.

Of basic colors, everyone agrees on another season for navy, both dark and light, and look for the big success of string color, green and other naturals.

Nipped-In Waist and Wide
Shoulders Is Spring Note

Nipped in at the waist and wide through the shoulder still is a formula for very chic costumes that are coming from the hands of leading designers. This forerunner of the spring silhouette is especially interesting, since it indicates that a fashion thought that might be regarded as "killed" is one season because of overemphasis in mass fashions may be reintroduced for another season and through the skillful hands that deal with a trend in the restrained manner of the better designer reincarnated into a fashion for the ultra chic.

It is Schiaparelli and Chanel who are responsible for this revived interest in the padded shoulder.

Form-Fitted Skips

Slips, which are replacing chemises in many smart women's wardrobes, are cut in form-fitting lines and fitted so snugly that not a wrinkle can spoil the line of a frock. Pair of slippers, which looks like a lace net, makes a number of models.

Local Death Record

Stories continue to multiply as to the severity of the cold weather that has been experienced this winter. A visitor from up in the Shandaken country reported this week that in many places the Esopus is frozen to the bottom and told of the old timer who said that he had seen the frozen fast in the ice. No water is coming into the Esopus through the Shandaken tunnel leading from the Gilboa reservoir. It is stated that the portal at Allamogosa has not been open this month and that as a matter of fact the water seal at the portal is frozen and it will be necessary to cut away the ice before the water from Gilboa can be turned into the Esopus.

At The Theatres

Today.

Kingston: "Gallant Lady." One of the best of the current talkies is this Anna Harding picture that has two such scabbers as Clive Brook and Otto Kruger in the supporting cast. Miss Harding plays a delicate and complicated role as the woman whose aviator fiance is killed and who thereby faces disgrace because of her lover's untimely death. Otto Kruger adopts her child, adding further complications to her intricate existence. Clive Brook, social outcast, is also a strong personality in her life, as is Tullio Carminati, an Italian with whom Miss Harding falls in love. The show is alive with situations, plots and counter-plots. Yet the acting is the best part of the entire show. Miss Harding is perfect in a difficult assignment, and Clive Brook, Tullio Carminati and Otto Kruger all contribute noteworthy characterizations. A talkie that is decidedly worth seeing.

Orpheum: "Headline Shooters" and "Flaming Gold." The newswear cameramen come in for a round of glory in the opening feature at the Orpheum. With William Gargan, Ralph Bellamy, Jack LaRue, Wallace Ford and Francis Dee all tearing along at a rapid pace throughout, this talkie is a winner for action. The story concerns a rough and ready cameraman, who rescues a girl newspaper reporter from a gang of kidnapers, falls in love with her, and the usual happy ending, bringing the play to a whirlwind finish. "Flaming Gold" is excellent out of doors drama with Mae Clark and Bill Boyd in the featured roles.

Broadway: "Madame Spy" and "Vauderville." What happens when a beautiful Russian spy marries a handsome Austrian army officer is easy to guess, especially if the woman in the case will sell what she knows to the highest bidder. That is exactly what happens in this talkie. The wife betrays her husband, and the shock is so great he decides to turn spy himself. In the final stages of the show, they meet again, she to lead him from the jaws of death as he realizes she loves him after all. Fay Wray and Nils Asther make a fine team, and the supporting cast offers Vince Barnett, John Miljan and Edward Arnold. Well directed and played, this show offers an atmosphere and intrigue that a few movies can create. Good for an evening of romantic excitement. Four acts of vaudeville feature the stage program.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same. Orpheum: "The Power and the Glory." The flash back idea comes into its own in this drama, with Spencer Tracy, Colleen Moore, Ralph Morgan and Helen Vinson carrying the heavy acting assignments. Ralph Morgan, in a spell of memory, tells some friends that one of his greatest friends has committed suicide. This leads him to go back and tell the man's life history from his early years through a life time of struggle to the presidency of a railway. So realistic is the acting and so well done the play that it is worth seeing.

Broadway: "Beloved." If this picture isn't classed as one of the outstanding productions of the year, there is no use in judging the movie. Almost an epic is this show, tenderly and beautifully acted and photographed. It disclosed the life and idealism of an American musician-composer in a burlesque perfect entertainment. John Boles plays the musician, and he makes history with the finest character part ever offered him. It tells the story of a musician, born in Vienna, who flees to America from revolution only to take up arms with the southern states against the north. Married, he carries his wife through all manner of poverty and disappointment following the war, trusting and praying his musical composition will be recognized. A worthless son makes his life more difficult, and in his old years, a grandson develops into a talented and recognized jazz artist, much to the sorrow of the grandfather. It isn't until late in life that his "American Symphony" is his life work, is recognized as a masterpiece. Unforgettable drama is this talkie, one of the outstanding triumphs of the motion picture industry. Don't miss.

PUPILS OF MRS. MOODY
GIVE DELIGHTFUL RECITAL.

New Palis, Feb. 24.—The pupils of Mrs. Mary Moody held their February recital at her residence on Huguenot street Monday evening, February 19. The program was delayed by many telephone calls from pupils who were unable to get their cars out of the garage during the storm. However, enough came to make it an enjoyable evening. The first number was a piano solo by Betty Bosworth. "A Dark Cloud Passing By," by Adair, and was followed by Minuet by Beethoven in G. played by Dorothy Ashton. Margaret Kevan contributed "Album by Henriquez" was played with feeling by Winifred Nelson. Grace Mauterstock gave a brilliant rendition of "Valse Caprice" by Engelmann. After the first program was ended Margaret Kevan surprised the audience with a song, "Slumber Boat." She is studying singing with her mother, Mrs. S. M. Kevan. Miss Gertrude Simpson opened the senior program with "Last Night" by Kjersell and "Bacio" by Arditi. Albert Dodd sang the "Road to Mandalay" by Spinks in his beautiful baritone voice. "Four Leaf Clover" by Brownell and "Sylvia" by Spinks were sung by Vladimir, much to the audience with a group of contralto songs, "Shadowa," by Carrie, seiser, by Jacobs. "Coming Home," by Rooma, Willey, and "Peter, Go Ring Dem Bells," a negro spiritual. After the funeral of her uncle in Beacon last program Mrs. Moody sang "Youa Friday, Dees, Marquise," by Lemaire, and "The Mission of a Rose," by Cowes. Request numbers were responded to by Albert Dodd, Gertrude Simpson, Vladimir Moody and Mrs. S. M. Kevan.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—W.C. Fields, the funny man of movie screen nonsense, is poised for a leap into the comedy-drama of tragedy. "Greasepaint," an original story now being written for him, is to take him in a role not completely comic, but still reminiscent of the famous Pagine, formula which calls for laughter through the heart-breaking.

Having by now reached that point in comic success where audiences prepare to laugh the moment he appears on the screen, Fields in this new role will be bucking the usually saccharine walls of a cinematic prison he himself reared through his previous work—he will be breaking away from "type."

Audiences Have Big Say
Changing an established movie type is one of the most ticklish pieces of business known to casting directors. It is tried not infrequently, and sometimes it succeeds. More often, it isn't even attempted, despite the pleadings of ingenious who want to be emotional stars, of leading men who want to be heavies, of heavies who want to be heroes.

In most cases audiences indicate their desire to see their favorite stars in roles to which they are accustomed. Some fans may have liked Janet Gaynor as the derelict girl in "The Man Who Came Back," but Janet immediately returned to her former form as the sweet young thing.

Joan Crawford's popularity was built on her "Dancing Daughter" characterizations, and her Sadie Thompson in "Rain" even she regards as a mistake. "Dancing Lady" goes back to the earlier type with success.

Funny Zasu
And Zasu Pitts, who began as a tragedienne in Erich von Stroheim's "Greed" and is still regarded by many as an ideal emotional actress, has gone so far in comedy that turning back is all but impossible. She was tried in a serious mother role in one picture, but the preview audience laughed throughout her big scene—just because it was Zasu Pitts and Zasu must be funny.

Among the few who did break away from type are Adolphe Menjou and Claudette Colbert. Menjou did it in "The Front Page" and Claudette proved in "The Sign of the Cross" that a sweet girl could portray a wicked shrew. She proved it so completely that now she's cast as "Cleopatra."

But Marie Dressler is the prime proof that it can be done. She was just a movie clown until her portrait in "Anna Christie" made Hollywood conscious of a new star whose versatility embraced drama as well as comedy.

Sundown
Stories

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"Certainly nothing is going to stop me now from doing my chores," commenced Willy Nilly, "but even more important is the fact that I am not going to put off attending to my sticking-out pointed ears another day."

"I don't like to have children whisper when they see me for the first time, an speak about my funny ears and say they look like a goat's."

"We wanted to go and punish them for that," said Christopher Crow.

"That would do no good," said Willy Nilly. "The ears must be made to stay back, and I think Top Notch has some plasters in his General Store which I can use. I'll have to keep working on my ears so that they get into the habit of staying back, too."

Top Notch hurried down to the General Store and came back with all the plasters he could find. Willy Nilly was delighted. Now after all this time he actually would attend to this very important matter.

Suddenly Rip picked up his ears and looked in surprise. The Ducks all waddled around in order to see what Rip had noticed. Then Christopher gave an excited "Caw-Caw," and Top Notch let forth an enormous "Cock-a-doodle-do!"

"What is it?" asked Willy Nilly. "Look!" they all shouted.

Along came Jelly Bear, looking much thinner than when he had gone to bed for the winter, but as well and as happy as could be.

"Are you waking up for the mild weather?" asked Willy Nilly.

"I am," growled Jelly Bear. Willy Nilly put down his plasters.

Makey-Greetsay.

STONE RIDGE.
Stone Ridge, Feb. 24.—The Home Bureau luncheon served at the home of Mrs. Cornelius Hardenburg was attended by 30 members. A delightful luncheon was served, followed by a business meeting of the society.

The baked ham supper under the auspices of the Builders Society of the M. E. Church was very successful from every point of view. Upwards of $50 was received.

There will be a benefit for the Stone Ridge Free Library held in the Grange Hall this evening. An entertainment followed by games, dancing and refreshments will be the order of the evening.

Mrs. Irving Schoonmaker is ill and confined to her bed.

The Misses Della and Helen Clark were guests Friday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Edward C. DeWitt of Kingston.

Mrs. Henry Davis, who has been confined to her home by illness, has recovered.

Miss Phoebe Brink, who has been ill, is also able to be out again.

PLAN BENEFIT FOR
STONE RIDGE LIBRARY

It has long been a matter of regret to the Stone Ridge community that the old stone house in the historic town, which was once a school, is now a ruin. The plan is to build a new library building on the site of the old school, and to use the old stone house as a library. ## Kingston Wins DUSO Title Beating Port Jervis, 27-18

Friday night in the gym of Port Jervis High School the basketball variety of Kingston High defeated Port Jervis High 27-18 in a fast quarter rally which netted the home 17 points.

Last Quarter Rally Saves Kingston. Kingston trailed at the end of each quarter, except the first which ended 6-0, and at the beginning of the fourth quarter Kingston was behind by seven points, 15-8. It was in this final quarter that Kingston began to click and at the final whistle had scored 17 points against 2 for Port, in the final period.

Game Fast. The game was very fast, probably one of the fastest played in DUSO circles in the last few years, and consequently was marked with many fast breaks and break shots at the basket.

Zeck and Every Star. Of the outstanding players in the game, the one that shone brightest was Kingston's great captain, Johnny Zeck. Zeck, who is well built and as fast as the wind in the loop, did all of Kingston's point shooting in the first half which ended 9-6, with Port in front. In the final half, as in the first, Zeck continued to score and at the final whistle had amassed 12 points to lead all others in scoring. Zeck's playing was flawless throughout the game and all through the contest. He demonstrated all of the qualities that make him a great captain and one of the greatest forwards produced under the Kingston regime in Kingston. Bob Every, local center, was next in line for honors, collecting 8 points. Every's playing, which was not quite up to Zeck's, was, however, spectacular and brilliant and because of this, he easily is one of the most outstanding centers in the loop.

Basket by Basket. As the two teams came on the floor, the voices of the 600 people that packed the Port Jervis gym were raised in one loud cheer for their team. However, Kingston spectators, who numbered almost as many as those from Port, by far cheered out Port Jervis in cheers as far as volume was concerned.

As the two teams lined up for the opening tapoff, there was a feeling of tension throughout the gym which was further intensified as the game progressed. The first quarter was fast and many long shots were taken by both teams, none of which were made, thus the quarter ended 0-0.

Soon after the opening of the second period, Pepper on a fast break sank a field to push Port ahead, 2-0. This was followed by two fields by Zeck, putting Kingston in the lead, 4-2. Fedorka of Port dropped in a shot from the foul line and his teammate, Mike Politynski, two, pulling Port ahead 5-4. Fedorka dropped in two from scrimmage and Zeck two fouls bringing the half to a close with Port Jervis in the vanguard, 9-6.

In the third quarter Kingston continued to miss shots, making only two for the session, these coming on fouls by Every. Soon after the opening whistle Pepper of Port tossed in a field, which was followed by Every's two. Pepper scored another two-point and so did Politynski, giving the home team a 15-8 lead at the end of the stanza.

Maroon's Great Rally. The fourth quarter saw Kingston display the greatest burst of play exhibited this season. She started a neat passwork. Moore getting the sphere to toss it through the hoop for a field. Every caged a duce and Politynski of Port a foul. Port was still ahead by four points, 16-12. Zeck and Debrosky shot in fields tying the tally 16-16. There were four minutes to go and the game had to be stopped until cheering subsided. Within one minute Zeck sank a field, Dykes a foul and Every a field, putting the Maroon in the lead by 21-16. With three minutes left, Zeck caged another field; Dunn of the home team a foul; Every a field; Pepper a foul; Debrosky two fouls. This order of scoring gave Kingston the game, 27-18, and the DUSO Basketball League title.

Winning yesterday, Kingston took its second DUSO championship this season, the Maroon football variety having conquered all other grid opponents in the loop last fall.

As a token of appreciation for their success on the court, Coach G. W. Kias took the DUSO title winners to West Point today to see the Army-Navy basketball game.

Newburgh Next. Next Friday Kingston High will close its season playing Newburgh Free Academy at Newburgh in a free lance contest, a return tilt between the schools, the Kiasmen having won the other skirmish.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Tea Rickard had just died but the blast from the stock market's crash had not yet been felt when Madison Square Garden's 400 millionaires promoted the Sharkey-Scribbling fight at Miami Beach in 1929, collected $400,000 in gate receipts and made a contract with the city of Miami to conduct annual heavyweight title fights during the winter for a period of five years.

The events before, during and after that affair rank among the balmy and most fantastic in the history of sport. They helped speed the climax that shot to pieces the boxing industry, along with a number of other gaudy enterprises. I witnessed all of the more or less celebrated battles under the Miami palms and here's the financial ride down the chute:

1929 Sharkey-Scribbling—35,000 paid $405,000.
1930 Sharkey-Scott—18,762 paid $193,252.
1931 Carnera-Maloney—9,453 paid $45,000; Walker-Risko—10,200 paid $25,000.

1932-33—Business suspended. Probably the survivors of the Garden directorate have forgotten all about this optimistic five-year contract, but it is interesting to note that the current season, marking the technical date of its expiration, finds a revival under way with a championship bout between Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran as featured title event. There will be loud cheering if the fight does even half as well as the memorable "Battle of the Minute's Rest" between Sharkey and Scott in 1930.

Loughran? About 1 to 10.

What chance has Loughran to take the title away from the grinning man mountain from Italy?

No more than one in 10, I would guess, much as many would enjoy watching the pleasant Philadelphia dancing master left-Jab Dan Freeman to bewilderment and defeat.

Three years ago, in the affair that became known as the "Battle of the Cracked Rib," for the reason that Carnera entered the ring against Jimmy Maloney with one side weakened and all plastered up with adhesive tape, Primo was still crude and inexperienced. Maloney, notoriously soft-chinned, slapped Carnera all over the ring that night, even though he lost the decision.

Loughran, under similar circumstances, probably would have had Carnera so dizzy with left jabs that there would have been no doubt about the outcome. However, in the three intervening years the Italian has unquestionably learned much, improving his boxing ability, capitalizing on the sheer bulk of his makeup and making the most of the power behind his butcher-like blows.

It is difficult to see how even so clever a boxer as Loughran can score sufficiently on points to offset the damage he is bound to absorb in close-range scuffling with his giant opponent. By simply bumping into Carnera's ham-like glove a few times, Tommy is bound to be jarred.

Would Be Poetic Justice. The fact that Carnera and his more or less notorious board of strategy accepted the Florida match is evidence of confidence in the outcome. Perhaps this is justified, all things considered, but it would be a fitting turn to heavyweight events of the past few years if Philadelphia Tommy succeeded in spearing a decision over the Italian.

Loughran never has had the hitting power or endurance that marked Gene Tunney's rise to the heavyweight heights but no other boxer of note has traveled quite so far as Tommy on limited fighting equipment. If there's a reward for courage, skill, persistence and earnestness under some handicaps, Loughran should win, but don't bet on it.

Results of DUSO games last night: Newburgh, 25; Middletown, 16; Monticello, 10; Ellenville, 8.

The final DUSO standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Kingston	6	0	1.000
Port Jervis	5	1	.833
Newburgh	4	2	.666
Monticello	4	2	.666
Ellenville	1	5	.167
Middletown	1	5	.167
Liberty	1	5	.167

Score at end of first half, 9-6. Port Jervis leading. Fouls committed—Kingston, 11; Port Jervis, 21. Referee—Barley and Manheim. Timekeeper—Fuller. Time of halves—16 minutes.

Powerful Pete

GLANCING AT SPORTS

By Joe Kelly

A Little Pep Needed.

The defeat of Pete Bruck's All Stars at Woodbridge by the team representing that place, Thursday indicates that the Stone Riders will have to pep it up a little for next Wednesday's tilt with Benny Borgman's Crescents at B. W. S. Hall, High Falls.

Of course, losing to Woodbridge was no great disgrace. This team is one of the best in Sullivan county, and then, the Brucks hold one decision over that club, scored at High Falls. The margin of victory for both clubs was by one point, indicating that they are in the same class, and some class at that.

The "rubber" between the quintets should draw a capacity house no matter what court it is played on. Getting back to the Crescents, Pete Bruck says his charges will be in the best of shape for this contest. "If we beat that Patterson bunch," opines Bruck, "we'll be on top of the world. If we can't win, well, we'll give 'em a close run anyhow."

Firemen to Try 'Em. Saturday's game for the Firemen at Rosendale Hall will be with Woodbridge, the quintet that beat the Brucks, and Manager Delaney is confident that his Hose Handlers will be able to take the visitors over, but encounter a real problem in doing so. There will be the usual preliminaries and a dance.

Results of DUSO games last night: Newburgh, 25; Middletown, 16; Monticello, 10; Ellenville, 8.

The final DUSO standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Kingston	6	0	1.000
Port Jervis	5	1	.833
Newburgh	4	2	.666
Monticello	4	2	.666
Ellenville	1	5	.167
Middletown	1	5	.167
Liberty	1	5	.167

Score at end of first half, 9-6. Port Jervis leading. Fouls committed—Kingston, 11; Port Jervis, 21. Referee—Barley and Manheim. Timekeeper—Fuller. Time of halves—16 minutes.

Winning yesterday, Kingston took its second DUSO championship this season, the Maroon football variety having conquered all other grid opponents in the loop last fall.

Senecas Play Feature With Comforter Seniors Tonight

Tonight at Comforter Hall, the regular Saturday basketball games will go on as follows:

Aces vs. a strong junior team at 7 o'clock.
Varsity Girls vs. Hunter, 8 o'clock.
Comforter Seniors vs. Senecas, 9 o'clock.

Lots of action is expected in the feature, as the Senecas hold two wins over the Comforters, who will try their best to show superiority. Both clubs will use their regular lineups.

The Senecas—Geisler, rf.; Meyers, lf.; Krum, c.; Mellow, rg.; Short, lg. Seniors—Stumpf, rf.; VanBramer, lf.; Rhymmer, lf.; Joyce, c.; Whitmore, lf.; Post, rg.

The preliminary at 8 o'clock between the Hunter and Comforter girls is one that will vie with the feature for the spotlight, according to followers of the home club which has not lost a game on its own court. However, the Hunter lassies contend they'll win tonight and get even for one victory the Comforters scored over them earlier in the season.

Hunter will use its regulars, as will the Varsity—M. Post, Rhymmer, Schlone, J. Kennedy, Stumpf, Schefel, Finkle and L. Post.

Gene Likes Tommy. Heeney Picks Primo.

Ex-Champ Thinks Miami Match Will Be Real Battle—Old Tom Favors Carnera Mainly on His Youth—Leo Shea Named Referee.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24 (AP)—If there is any value in the combined opinions of two retired heavyweights who once met in the same ring for the championship—Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney—Then the fifteen round duel of Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran Wednesday night may wind up a draw.

Tunney, who knocked old Hard Rock Heeney out in 11 rounds in his ring valedictory in 1928, saw Loughran pelt his burly sparring partners in West Palm Beach yesterday, and while he did not pick Tommy out and out to win, he did everything else but.

What Tunney Thinks. "If I didn't think Tommy had a chance, I wouldn't go to the fight," Tunney said. "But I will be there. It should be a real battle."

Tunney fought Loughran back in 1922, when both were but a short way up the ladder, and Tunney won the verdict of newspapermen.

though the bout, an eight-round affair in Philadelphia, was a no-decision contest.

Heeney's story is different, including his opinion of next Wednesday night's winner, which he believes will be Carnera.

"I've been watching Carnera work a good deal," Tom says, "and everything a man can have in his favor in a ring, he has. He's terribly big and strong. He has reach, height, endurance, and youth. That's the important thing, youth. As fighters go Tommy is a grandfather in the ring. It doesn't seem possible that Tommy can overcome these handicaps."

The Miami Boxing Commission yesterday appointed Leo Shea, referee for the match after the managers of the two warriors failed to agree on a choice.

UNCLE SAM UNDERTAKES A NEW LAND PROGRAM

Government Considers Buying Back Territory Too Poor For Farming

Washington (AP).—Uncle Sam, who gave away or sold for a song millions of acres from out of his apparently limitless frontier to get the land into cultivation by sturdy homesteaders, is preparing to buy part of it back to get it out of production.
One of the reasons Uncle Sam is so willing to buy some of it back is that he has decided it was expensive, even as a gift, to those who received it. It is so poor that it is impossible for anyone, under ordinary conditions, to make a living from it by farming.
Public Ownership Proposed.
It is being wasted and lost because unsuited for cultivation, and it is proposed to put it under public ownership so that it can be used for other purposes and conserved.
This land the government proposes to buy is called "submarginal"—that is, it is so unproductive that more effort is put into the land than the resulting crop is worth.

The program is not calculated merely to reduce agricultural surpluses. That job is still to be left to the A. A. Submarginal land produces little.
A Long Time Program.
The ideal "master land plan" would consolidate farming operations on the best land, abandon some lands altogether to forests, parks, grazing, wild life preserves, watershed protection or erosion control, and settle some of the population in combination agricultural-industrial villages.
Those who remained would make marginal farms out of several submarginal farms by using the better lands of each, and perhaps earn part of their living by working in the forests.
Officials recognize it will require several administrations to see the policy through. All those on submarginal holdings cannot suddenly be induced to abandon their homes. Public projects on unprofitable submarginal lands are envisioned in the new plan.

And Peter was sure that the jumps of Nimbleheels were growing shorter. The wonderful little jumper was growing tired. Peter felt

"If Hooty does catch Nimbleheels I shall blame myself as long as I live. Yes, I will. It is my fault. It is all my fault. They are getting nearer the Brier Patch, but I'm afraid they won't get there in time. Oh dear! Oh dear!"
For the time being Peter quite forgot that he himself was anything but safe sitting out there on the Green Meadows in the moonlight. His whole

Mrs. Maudie Wins Divorce.

Reno, Nevada, Feb. 24 (AP). Stricken ill while attending a dinner party with three friends at a Reno night club last night, Mrs. The Fortescue Massie is under a physician's care in a Reno hospital today. The physician, Dr. Vinton A. Mull, said her condition is not serious, but that "she will be all right in a few days." Mrs. Massie, who is a world-wide attention in 1932 when she was the victim of an assault Honolulu, divorced Lieut. Thon H. Massie on charges of extreme mental cruelty here yesterday.
